EXPECT BIG INCREASE IN B. AND L. CONCERNS

U. S. League, in Session Here, Approves New Currency Law Provisions.

Under the new currency law, author-$360,000,000 in farm loans, if they choose, President W. J. Bayersdorffer, of the United States League of Local Building and Loan Associations, looks for a marked increase in the business of such associations in the near future. He made this plain in his opening address before the twenty-second annual meeting of the league, which opened at the Raieigh Hotel at 5:30 this morning with 200 delegates present, representing twenty States. Aiready the building and loan associations of this country have 2,800,000 saving and borrowing members and assets amounting to a billion and a quarter dollars, but with the national banks authorized to make farm loans and with many State banking laws being similarly changed, these totals are expected to be materially increased.

The Torrens system of land title regisfration, already adopted by several States, was characterized by Mr. Bayersdorffer as a great improvement over the old system of mere recording of deeds, the validity and effect of which everybody must ascertain for himself. He concluded by saying that there was every indication the United States would be well represented at the International Congress of European Building Socities and American Build on August 11. Brief address of welcome were de livered before the convention when it met today by District Commissioner Siddons and by James F. Shea, president of the District of Columbia Building Association Council. They were folowed by President Bayersdorffer, after which Secretary H. F. Cellarius, of the National League, made his annual re-

This report showed that January 1, last, there were 6,429 building and loan associations in the United States. Withn the last year the membership of these associations has increased more than 12 per cent and the assets nearly 10 per cent. Twenty associations were orted for the District of Columbia with a membership of nearly 35,000 and assets of $19,000,000.

The annual report of Herbert W. Pinkham, treasurer of the league, and the appointment of committees of fiance and resolutions concluded the day's business, a trip down the river to Mt. Vernon being the only thing on the afternoon program.

The sessions of the league will continue tomorrow and Wednesday. Three addresses will take up most of tomorrow morning's session. "The Land Bank of the State of New York," by Edwin F. Howell, of New York city; "Joint and Survivor Accounts," by Charles F. Benjamin, of Washington, and "The Birth, History and Evolution of the American Building and Loan Association," by James M. McKay, of Youngstown, Ohio, are the subjects announced. In addition there will be a discussion Rural Credits and Farm Loans, opened by K. V. Haymaker, of Defiance, Ohio, and chairman of the committee on farm loans.
